WASHINGTON.

The Eight Hour Law Considered by the Cabinet.

Conflicting Legislation on the Subject.

Gen. Terrell to be Third Assistant Postmaster General.

A Commotion Among the Underlings in the Patent Office.

Senator Sprague Concludes the Publication of his Testimonials.

And Fires a Pinal Shot into the Enemy's Ranks.

&c., &c., &c.

[Special Telegraph Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Cabinet meeting to-day had by far the most interesting matter discussed at its sessions of the season, but did not come to any conclusion. The disposition seemed to be to let the troubles drift over until the meeting of Congress, when the inconsistency existing between the eight-hour law and the act of 1868 can be arranged. The latter act provides that the Government shall pay no higher wages for work than is paid for similar service by outside parties. The War and Navy Secretaries have received letters from various portions of the country stating that the laborers on Government work are spending two hour's pay for eight hours' work.

MARINE WARNING.

It is probable that several of the vessels attached to the North Atlantic squadron now cruising in Caban waters, will be ordered to a more northern latitude by the summer season, and their places filled by other vessels now being fitted out at the several navy yards throughout the country. This fact has given rise to the sensational publication that the Gulf squadron was to be retained.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

It is stated that Thomas L. Tullock, appointment clerk at the Treasury Department, will be pressed for the position of Assistant Secretary, now held by Mr. Richardson, should that gentleman resign to accept the position of Judge of the District Court of Nebraska, recently tendered him. Tullock and a long interview with the President this morning.

RELATIONS WITH ENGLAND.

There is official authority for the statement that the administration has not yet done anything in relation to the recall of Minister Motley or new negotiations for the settlement of the Alabama claims, and the prospect is that Motley will go to England and that he negotiations will follow him.

THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL SHIP.

It is positively stated by several Senators that upon the return of Mr. Creswell he will appoint Gen. J. Terrell, of Indianapolis, Third Assistant Postmaster General, at the request of Gen. Grant. A great effort has been made to have A. B. Markland appointed, but it is believed to have failed. Gen. Terrell was Auditor of Indiana when Governor Morton was the third Governor. He is a cousin of one of the Legislators during the war.

MR. THOMAS M. NELSON,

Minister to Mexico, left for his home in Tenn Hants, to be gone two weeks, and then to leave for Mexico.

SURVEYOR-GENERAL WADSWORTH,

Commissioner of Claims under the New Mexican treaty, left with him for Maysville, Kentucky, to be gone a fortnight; also, thence to return to reside in Washington.

SUPREME.

The new Commissioner of Patents is (not) expected, at least by his employes, to make many removals, and from examines down they are in a state of perturbation. He has fixated nothing as yet, however, and this makes the suspense more painful.

WISCONSIN LANDS.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has transmitted to the Governor of Wisconsin two lists of lands, which have to said State by the benefit of the Chicago, Fond du Lac and Western Railroad, from Fon Du Lac northwardly to the State line. These lists embrace an aggregate of one hundred thousand acres.

SYRACUSE PUN.

Senator Sprague concludes in the Globe today the publication of forty-three columns of letters from various portions of the country in his present speeches, and succeeds them by printing that portion of his remarks which he did not deliver in the Senate on Thursday last. The remarks are as follows:

Mr. President—These are but part of the letters I have received touching the great question of the day. I have not time to read them, nor is it my present intention of these questions to publish them all. I have made no attack on the remarks or motives of those who have assailed my position in the Senate. I have only defended my public bearing on the great question at issue. I have not sought to array class against class, or party and principles I advocate stand surveyed. I have criticised your bonding schemes of the Administration, but because he is a representative of that thing, or of any man is a question of principle, and not a question of men, individuals, or any physical force. I appeal to the moral sense of the people upon the weighty responsibility. Nor do I regard the present prostitutions of the public treasury as the worst feature of the public situation. I have never mentioned his name in connection with this subject. He acts are the true defense of any questions I may have incidentally uttered. The people will observe that the plotting of Senators in executive sessions of the Senate to fire members of the House of Representatives, except in the case of the whipping of whelps of political opponents, have not expressed themselves peculiarly delighted with what they have seen for the last few years. Whether the spirit of the Senate at the forefront of the age, at the head of the nation, and at the opening for industrial reconstruction, as well as commercial and agricultural, is in accord with the spirit of the people, in all their private relations of business and social life, I will leave to others to determine. They would not say that I have defined what they have done. The Senate editors are surprised at the condition of the country and its political questions.

The Daily Register has opened its columns to say that the Democratic party has not a single plank from which to fight the next campaign. [Laughter.]

To-day the Basket of Truth gave a steamboat excursion down the harbor through the Narrows, and, as a collation was given on board, there was a common scramble for good things, which, and a shower bouths to be at peace. The excursionists will go from Montgomery, homeward via the Columbus, Mississippi and Mobile and Ohio railroad.

FOREIGN.

[BY OCEAN TELEGRAPH.]

ENGLAND.

NEW MARKET RACES.

LONDON, April 27.—The two thousand guineas stake at New Market to-day was won by Pretender Bell. Athrym was second and Fay Down third. Thirteen horses ran.

LIFE PEERAGE BILL.

Midnight.—In the House of Lords this evening the life peerage bill was considered. Lord Derby, in a brief speech, expressed his approval of the measure. The bill passed to a second reading.

BOAT RACE.

The Cambridge University boatmen have conditionally accepted the challenge of the Oxford College crew.

PORTUGAL.

HEALTHY FINANCIAL CONDITION.

LISBON, April 27.—The Portuguese Cortes assembled to-day and the session was opened by the King in person. Much public anxiety exists over the unsatisfactory condition of finances. The ministers was immediately sought before the Cortes with the statement that the expenditures are largely in excess of the revenue. The ministers said they were preparing extensive economical reforms, and would soon submit to the Cortes measures for the reduction of the public expenses, for the redistribution of taxation, and for the payment of the public debt.

FRANCE.

HER CHOICE NO BIGGER THAN A MAN'S HAND.

PARIS, April 27.—The Corps Legislatif has adjourned sine die. At the close of the last sitting there were shouts of vive l'Empereur from the Government members, and counter-cries of vive la liberte from the opposite seats.

BOARDING-HOUSE CONVENTION.

The Governments of France and Belgium have agreed to appoint a mixed commission for the settlement of commercial questions.

CHICAGO.

Answer of the State House Commissioners to the Charge of Fraud—The Late Judge Tyler—Policemen on Their Trial.

CHICAGO, April 27.—The following is understood to be the substance of the answer of the State House Commissioners to the charge of fraud preferred against them: They admit the first specification except that they deny that any of the proceeds have been retained by the Commissioners, and they admit that they paid out for necessary expenses, and the remainder is still here. The expenses of the Committee on Public Buildings, while acting with the Commissioners, was paid out of the fund. The law did not require them to return the proceeds of the sale, and as it was, got a part of the appropriation no report was made of it, and therefore it has never been returned. Second—They admit advertising, &c., but do not deny or admit that Barnard and Goveen charged their bills, and think it would be no injury to the State, as this bill was originally the lowest which, coming within the limit of the appropriation, was accepted, and if any bid was changed it was while in the hands of Webber, in whose charge it was from the time it was opened until passed upon. They deny all of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of the Commissioners, and not of the bondsmen. They admit the fourth specification, but admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

A December dispatch says there are now but fifteen miles of tract to be connected by two roads of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The last will hereafter be laid down at the rate of a mile of a mile to a day until the connection is made.

THE DOMINION.

Mr. Galt's Speech—England will not be Humiliated—The Colonies not to be Abandoned.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Tribune's Ottawa despatch says that Mr. Galt made a long speech in the Commons yesterday, supporting his motion respecting the Fenian raids. He said the Fenian troubles in the province motion so as to include all correspondence between Canada and the United States during the rebellion. He debated at great length the policy of Canada, and closed by saying the course of the United States Government appeared to be dictated by a desire to bring about the humiliation of England. He rose for a dispassionate consideration, but he did not believe the plan would succeed. England would not for a moment degrade herself, and the people of Canada would sustain her to a man. Having repudiated the idea that the policy of Great Britain was to be one of humiliation he could abandonment. Mr. Galt closed amid loud cheers.

Arrival of Schooners at Montreal—Printer's Strike—Tax on American Vessels—Protection of the Fisheries.

MONTREAL, April 27.—A large fleet of schooners arrived at Montreal from the lower Lake St. Peter is clear of ice. The wharves here are still covered with two feet water.

The printers' strike continues. The printers' strike, and the men seem more determined than ever. Compositors have been telegraphed to come from Toronto.

OTTAWA, April 27.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Keeler asked whether the Government intended to establish similar laws and duties on American vessels in Canadian ports as are levied by Canadian vessels trading in American ports. Sir John A. Macdonald was under consideration. The Government don't pledge themselves to any particular line of action, but a part of the revenue has been paid out for necessary expenses, and the remainder is still here. The expenses of the Committee on Public Buildings, while acting with the Commissioners, was paid out of the fund. The law did not require them to return the proceeds of the sale, and as it was, got a part of the appropriation no report was made of it, and therefore it has never been returned. Second—They admit advertising, &c., but do not deny or admit that Barnard and Goveen charged their bills, and think it would be no injury to the State, as this bill was originally the lowest which, coming within the limit of the appropriation, was accepted, and if any bid was changed it was while in the hands of Webber, in whose charge it was from the time it was opened until passed upon. They deny all of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of the Commissioners, and not of the bondsmen. They admit the fourth specification, but admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

A December dispatch says there are now but fifteen miles of tract to be connected by two roads of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The last will hereafter be laid down at the rate of a mile of a mile to a day until the connection is made.

THE DOMINION.

Mr. Galt's Speech—England will not be Humiliated—The Colonies not to be Abandoned.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Tribune's Ottawa despatch says that Mr. Galt made a long speech in the Commons yesterday, supporting his motion respecting the Fenian raids. He said the Fenian troubles in the province motion so as to include all correspondence between Canada and the United States during the rebellion. He debated at great length the policy of Canada, and closed by saying the course of the United States Government appeared to be dictated by a desire to bring about the humiliation of England. He rose for a dispassionate consideration, but he did not believe the plan would succeed. England would not for a moment degrade herself, and the people of Canada would sustain her to a man. Having repudiated the idea that the policy of Great Britain was to be one of humiliation he could abandonment. Mr. Galt closed amid loud cheers.

Arrival of Schooners at Montreal—Printer's Strike—Tax on American Vessels—Protection of the Fisheries.

MONTREAL, April 27.—A large fleet of schooners arrived at Montreal from the lower Lake St. Peter is clear of ice. The wharves here are still covered with two feet water.

The printers' strike continues. The printers' strike, and the men seem more determined than ever. Compositors have been telegraphed to come from Toronto.

OTTAWA, April 27.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Keeler asked whether the Government intended to establish similar laws and duties on American vessels in Canadian ports as are levied by Canadian vessels trading in American ports. Sir John A. Macdonald was under consideration. The Government don't pledge themselves to any particular line of action, but a part of the revenue has been paid out for necessary expenses, and the remainder is still here. The expenses of the Committee on Public Buildings, while acting with the Commissioners, was paid out of the fund. The law did not require them to return the proceeds of the sale, and as it was, got a part of the appropriation no report was made of it, and therefore it has never been returned. Second—They admit advertising, &c., but do not deny or admit that Barnard and Goveen charged their bills, and think it would be no injury to the State, as this bill was originally the lowest which, coming within the limit of the appropriation, was accepted, and if any bid was changed it was while in the hands of Webber, in whose charge it was from the time it was opened until passed upon. They deny all of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of the Commissioners, and not of the bondsmen. They admit the fourth specification, but admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

The Courier-Journal.

VOLUME XXXIX. LOUISVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1869. NEW SERIES—NUMBER 259.

AN AWFUL SLAM.

Some of the Mysteries and Miseries of Newspaper Life.

John Russell Young and his Journalistic Ups and Downs.

A TOTAL WRECK.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Sun of to-day contains a long article in relation to John Russell Young, commencing with his initiation into the Tribune as writing editor. It progresses to his appointment as managing editor, when he wrote the following letter:

Office of the Tribune, June 23, 1865.—Dear Charley: In the harness at last; took command yesterday; signed all the checks, and sent two men to Richmond and two to Lincoln. You see I am up to my eyes. I find the feeling good. The newspapers speak kindly of me. In the office the feeling is kind, but I fancy a hidden dislike in one or two cases. I have, too, my share of snobs in the office, and hope in the choice I made in the July meeting. Gay will make trouble, like the bald-face, baldly. He will not like the burrowing rat. I am afraid—still I will do my duty, and trust to the God who has carried me thus far through worse troubles. Tell McConnell to come to New York as soon as he can. Give him the advice I spoke of. He must not slinge to me as an old friend. I will put him in and let him work up. Send him on. How about your own matter?

Thine always,

JOHN (with a flourish).

To CHAS. McC., Philadelphia.

The next that follow says that there was an inundation of Tribune lawyers from Philadelphia, and a crowding of the old staff to the wall, their places being filled by detail from the body guard. On January 1, 1867, the ship was overmanned; her crew of 1865 was fully strained. The freights for the trip had ceased to 4 million dollars; the profits were less than eleven thousand dollars. It was the most unprofitable voyage that the old ship had ever sailed through. The Philosopher's influence with the owners was destroyed. He were silenced, and the captain retained. On January 14, 1867, he wrote as follows:

Dear Charley: The stockholders had their meeting to-day, and my report was approved by a vote of eight-two shares to ten, showing that I had 56,000 more than Gay. I made a report which is highly complimentary, and had everything my own way, having in fact more than a stronger than ever. Mischief just over. Thought you would like to know.

In the meantime he discovers the stockholders who thus strongly indorsed him were in a set of old fogies. On 4th of May he writes Charley:

Office of Tribune, Editorial Department, May 4.—Dear Charley: Since I wrote you I have had successful things. I am doing so here, keeping myself in the harness, never remaining a current of opposition, and trying to do my duty. I shall do so long as I can, keeping myself in the battle. Well, it seems that all the fellows in the office are not, and that I am only not through the world of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of it. In regard to the fourth specification they admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

A December dispatch says there are now but fifteen miles of tract to be connected by two roads of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The last will hereafter be laid down at the rate of a mile of a mile to a day until the connection is made.

THE DOMINION.

Mr. Galt's Speech—England will not be Humiliated—The Colonies not to be Abandoned.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Tribune's Ottawa despatch says that Mr. Galt made a long speech in the Commons yesterday, supporting his motion respecting the Fenian raids. He said the Fenian troubles in the province motion so as to include all correspondence between Canada and the United States during the rebellion. He debated at great length the policy of Canada, and closed by saying the course of the United States Government appeared to be dictated by a desire to bring about the humiliation of England. He rose for a dispassionate consideration, but he did not believe the plan would succeed. England would not for a moment degrade herself, and the people of Canada would sustain her to a man. Having repudiated the idea that the policy of Great Britain was to be one of humiliation he could abandonment. Mr. Galt closed amid loud cheers.

Arrival of Schooners at Montreal—Printer's Strike—Tax on American Vessels—Protection of the Fisheries.

MONTREAL, April 27.—A large fleet of schooners arrived at Montreal from the lower Lake St. Peter is clear of ice. The wharves here are still covered with two feet water.

The printers' strike continues. The printers' strike, and the men seem more determined than ever. Compositors have been telegraphed to come from Toronto.

OTTAWA, April 27.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Keeler asked whether the Government intended to establish similar laws and duties on American vessels in Canadian ports as are levied by Canadian vessels trading in American ports. Sir John A. Macdonald was under consideration. The Government don't pledge themselves to any particular line of action, but a part of the revenue has been paid out for necessary expenses, and the remainder is still here. The expenses of the Committee on Public Buildings, while acting with the Commissioners, was paid out of the fund. The law did not require them to return the proceeds of the sale, and as it was, got a part of the appropriation no report was made of it, and therefore it has never been returned. Second—They admit advertising, &c., but do not deny or admit that Barnard and Goveen charged their bills, and think it would be no injury to the State, as this bill was originally the lowest which, coming within the limit of the appropriation, was accepted, and if any bid was changed it was while in the hands of Webber, in whose charge it was from the time it was opened until passed upon. They deny all of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of the Commissioners, and not of the bondsmen. They admit the fourth specification, but admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

A December dispatch says there are now but fifteen miles of tract to be connected by two roads of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The last will hereafter be laid down at the rate of a mile of a mile to a day until the connection is made.

THE DOMINION.

Mr. Galt's Speech—England will not be Humiliated—The Colonies not to be Abandoned.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Tribune's Ottawa despatch says that Mr. Galt made a long speech in the Commons yesterday, supporting his motion respecting the Fenian raids. He said the Fenian troubles in the province motion so as to include all correspondence between Canada and the United States during the rebellion. He debated at great length the policy of Canada, and closed by saying the course of the United States Government appeared to be dictated by a desire to bring about the humiliation of England. He rose for a dispassionate consideration, but he did not believe the plan would succeed. England would not for a moment degrade herself, and the people of Canada would sustain her to a man. Having repudiated the idea that the policy of Great Britain was to be one of humiliation he could abandonment. Mr. Galt closed amid loud cheers.

Arrival of Schooners at Montreal—Printer's Strike—Tax on American Vessels—Protection of the Fisheries.

MONTREAL, April 27.—A large fleet of schooners arrived at Montreal from the lower Lake St. Peter is clear of ice. The wharves here are still covered with two feet water.

The printers' strike continues. The printers' strike, and the men seem more determined than ever. Compositors have been telegraphed to come from Toronto.

OTTAWA, April 27.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Keeler asked whether the Government intended to establish similar laws and duties on American vessels in Canadian ports as are levied by Canadian vessels trading in American ports. Sir John A. Macdonald was under consideration. The Government don't pledge themselves to any particular line of action, but a part of the revenue has been paid out for necessary expenses, and the remainder is still here. The expenses of the Committee on Public Buildings, while acting with the Commissioners, was paid out of the fund. The law did not require them to return the proceeds of the sale, and as it was, got a part of the appropriation no report was made of it, and therefore it has never been returned. Second—They admit advertising, &c., but do not deny or admit that Barnard and Goveen charged their bills, and think it would be no injury to the State, as this bill was originally the lowest which, coming within the limit of the appropriation, was accepted, and if any bid was changed it was while in the hands of Webber, in whose charge it was from the time it was opened until passed upon. They deny all of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of the Commissioners, and not of the bondsmen. They admit the fourth specification, but admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

A December dispatch says there are now but fifteen miles of tract to be connected by two roads of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The last will hereafter be laid down at the rate of a mile of a mile to a day until the connection is made.

NEW YORK.

Continued Ease in the Money Market.

John Russell Young Retires from the Tribune.

Publication of his Private Correspondence.

He Brings Suit Against the Sun for Libel.

Charles A. Dana Arrested and $10,000 Bail Required.

&c., &c., &c.

[Special Dispatch to the Courier-Journal.]

MONEY.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Money easy at 6@7 per cent. on call, with discount fairly active at 8@10 per cent. The announcement of the Secretary of the Treasury that he would not sell more than a million dollars of gold each week has removed all apprehension of embarrassment from that cause.

GOLD

Buoyant, but mainly from scarcity. Exports of merchandise are increasing, and imports falling off.

GOVERNMENT BONDS

are again higher, and the closing prices the highest yet quoted. Purchases continue to be chiefly on foreign account, and the large dealers generally receiving more orders from the country than they have than to buy. The borrowing demand for bonds is not so active as yesterday, and in State bonds the features were new Tennessee, which sold at 83½@83¾, and new North Carolinas, which rose to 56¾@56¾. Missouri 6s sold at 90¾, Louisiana 6s at 74, and Indiana 5s at 97¾.

RAILROAD MORTGAGES

are without special interest.

RAILWAY SHARES

were active and firm. The interest was mainly absorbed in New York Central and Hudson River. It is confidently asserted that the two roads are to be consolidated, and that the latter will make a scrip dividend. The rumor has been in the market for months, but is now more definite. Michigan Southern and Lake Shore were also largely dealt in and advanced from some real or supposed connection with the Central. Pacific mails were steady.

MONEY.

Philadelphia, April 25, 1869.—Dear Sir: Since Mr. Young assumed the duties of the position he now occupies on the New York Tribune, he has repeatedly assumed me I would be the publisher of the Tribune. He or Mr. Sinclair was an old friend of Mr. Reed's, the manager of the Post, and in this city, and the stockholders would soon be paid. Mr. Young, as I am informed, has come at my present residence, shortly before the bankruptcy of the Tribune, and secured a place on the Post mess list. How are you with Forney? Why don't you send me the Post? I have only had the Tribune twenty-six days, regularly, and I change it with the Tribune.

A subsequent letter says:

Office of the Tribune, Saturday.—Dear Charley: As a paper the paper improves. Wednesday I wrote him that the Union seems to make it spin. I wrote him by the mail. Yesterday I got a run for a 5,000 dollar loan. Don't see my way to it, but referred it to Sinclair and Forney. Got a more loan in the Post, the more enthusiastic I feel about it. Everything is now everything is success. Read John Clayton's note; it is his style. He is in reach, and I am sure I can hit him right. Am going to Washington to-morrow. Leonard W. Jerome said to me the secret of wealth was not so much to hold on as to let go.

JOHN.

John Clayton's note, referred to above, was as follows:

Philadelphia, No. 111 Walnut street, Oct. 15, 1868.—My dear Young: If not a State secret would like to know how you can write for the Tribune and be the strong man in the Morning Post, a penny paper of this city? I like the tone of it, and if you are not in reach of it will like it better still, and probably drop crumbs for my benefit more frequently.

JNO. CLAYTON.

To Russell Young, Esq.

This note which was sent to Charley with the one dated Wednesday and printed above was indorsed:

Young's spring [illegible] and J. D. S. were in the thing and I was merely a kind of behind the scenes friend and backer.

J. R. Y.

After the Post had been afloat two weeks, Chief Justice Chase, a prominent candidate for the Presidency, and the Democratic Governor of it, as will be seen by the following dispatch of October 22, 1867.

Dear Charley: Have seen Chase and John D. Stockton, Philadelphia—Please send to Chase, Washington, a file of Posts from beginning. I have written Stockton. Be sure to send Philadelphia on Friday. Am going to see him. J. R. Y. (D. S.)

How he succeeded with Mr. Chase is unknown, but he left the new Democratic organ for some weeks. The real cause of the above dispatch is to be seen in the following letter, dated October 24, 1867:

Tribune Editorial Room, Friday—Midnight—Dear Charley: I don't see why, if anybody can win with money, we can't win with it. I am sure the manna will fall when we are hungered. Our wars have saved to us. They never desert us. Look at Grant. The Democrats rallied against his resignation; told him to wait until the 4th of March, and he would be President by acclamation. What do you mean by forcing being armed force on the coast of the Dominion? Do you mean by forcing being armed force on the coast of the Dominion? Do you mean by forcing us? On that keep me well informed. I want to work that way for money. I am coming from the country to-day, and my report was approved by a vote of eighty-two shares to ten, although I need but 56,000 more than Gay. I made a report which is highly complimentary, and had everything my own way, having in fact more than a stronger than ever. Mischief just over. Thought you would like to know.

In the meantime he discovers the stockholders who thus strongly indorsed him were a set of old fogies. On 4th of May he writes Charley:

Office of Tribune, Editorial Department, May 4.—Dear Charley: Since I wrote you I have had successful things. I am doing so here, keeping myself in the harness, never remaining a current of opposition, and trying to do my duty. I shall do so long as I can, keeping myself in the battle. Well, it seems that all the fellows in the office are not, and that I am only not through the world of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of it. In regard to the fourth specification they admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

A December dispatch says there are now but fifteen miles of tract to be connected by two roads of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The last will hereafter be laid down at the rate of a mile of a mile to a day until the connection is made.

U. S. COURT IN COVINGTON.

The Case of Henry Burlew & Company—Charge to the Jury by Judge Ballard.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

The case of Henry Burlew, charged with the use of false and counterfeit bonds, has been before Judge Ballard and jury for several days past, in the District Court, now in session at Covington. District Attorney Bristow, of Louisville, appeared for the Government, and ex-Governor Flak, assisted by Gen. Burnett, for the defendant. The case has excited much interest among the tobacconists of Covington and this city, and the room has been crowded day after day by the manufacturers and dealers. The case was argued on behalf of the defendant, on Saturday, by Gen. Flak. Yesterday Col. Bristow presented the case for the Government, and Judge Ballard delivered his charge to the jury. We present a careful abstract of the charge, and we are sure our readers will find it a piece of interesting matter.

Judge Ballard charged the jury at great length, but we give the substance of the charge. He explained to them the nature of the counts contained in the indictment, of which there are five. The first three are substantially the same, and charge the defendants with placing false and fraudulent bonds upon certain Mr. H. Uhlen & Co. The fourth charges them with having in possession counterfeit bonds, intending to defraud the Government by evading the revenue laws. The fifth charge was thrown out by Judge Ballard upon demurrer.

In reference to the first three counts, the first question, the counts said, was whether the bonds upon the caddy heads, which had been produced before the jury, were counterfeit brands or marks. The next inquiry would be whether they were affixed by the defendants or by their authority. The third matter to be determined is whether they were affixed within this district. All these points are essential to the inquiry. In reference to the third point of inquiry, he remarked that the court had no jurisdiction for an offence committed beyond the limits of the State. A party could not be tried in Kentucky for crimes committed in Ohio.

The first question then is, is the counterfeit brand? For the purpose of proving this point the Government has offered fourteen heads and those claimed to be counterfeit, and has examined a number, by a non-expert hands before the jury, that there are differences between the genuine brand and those which they claim to be counterfeit. It is for the jury to say whether they are satisfied from the evidence, that these differences actually exist. The jury have seen the heads which these brands are placed upon caddy heads, and they very carefully compared the character from the plates upon which bank notes are printed. The jury have been assisted by the most skilled engravers, and therefore it is somewhat difficult for them to judge. The jury per, too, is very carefully prepared, and the president are will detect the counterfeit note the slightest difference. Although the jury must be keen the counterfeit and genuine may not be thus easily detected by the eye of the jury. But the case is very different in relation to those brands made, if they are, by rude means. A man would very rarely be a judge of the latter respects. The difference can not be pointed out to the jury with the same certainty which is possible in the case of bank notes. The question is a matter of opinion of a witness is of far less value than it would be in respect to more perfect instruments. The principal point is, have the defendants used them, and see whether the differences exist. An expert may be of use in determining the extent of the difference which might escape their attention upon a careful examination, unless they had had experience in the matter. In which a witness would desire. But the jury should examine the blocks for themselves, and see if there are any distinct differences. If they are not satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the brand is a counterfeit, then there is an end of the case so far as these charges are preferred.

If the jury should entertain beyond a reasonable doubt, that these are counterfeit brands, they will next consider whether they were made to the order of the defendants, or by their authority, or direction, or procurement. The brands are in the hands of the inventor of the machine by which they are impressed upon the caddy heads. The jury are a representative of the place where the goods were manufactured, and therefore the jury can say at the world as evidence that the tobacco was manufactured and invoiced and shipped at Covington.

Before passing from this point, it may be remarked that New York Tribune, he has repeatedly assumed me I would be the publisher of the Tribune. He or Mr. Sinclair was an old friend of Mr. Reed's, the manager of the Post, and in this city, and the stockholders would soon be paid. Mr. Young, as I am informed, has come at my present residence, shortly before the bankruptcy of the Tribune, and secured a place on the Post mess list. How are you with Forney? Why don't you send me the Post? I have only had the Tribune twenty-six days, regularly, and I change it with the Tribune.

A subsequent letter says:

Office of the Tribune, Saturday.—Dear Charley: As a paper the paper improves. Wednesday I wrote him that the Union seems to make it spin. I wrote him by the mail. Yesterday I got a run for a 5,000 dollar loan. Don't see my way to it, but referred it to Sinclair and Forney. Got a more loan in the Post, the more enthusiastic I feel about it. Everything is now everything is success. Read John Clayton's note; it is his style. He is in reach, and I am sure I can hit him right. Am going to Washington to-morrow. Leonard W. Jerome said to me the secret of wealth was not so much to hold on as to let go.

JOHN.

John Clayton's note, referred to above, was as follows:

Philadelphia, No. 111 Walnut street, Oct. 15, 1868.—My dear Young: If not a State secret would like to know how you can write for the Tribune and be the strong man in the Morning Post, a penny paper of this city? I like the tone of it, and if you are not in reach of it will like it better still, and probably drop crumbs for my benefit more frequently.

JNO. CLAYTON.

To Russell Young, Esq.

This note which was sent to Charley with the one dated Wednesday and printed above was indorsed:

Young's spring [illegible] and J. D. S. were in the thing and I was merely a kind of behind the scenes friend and backer.

J. R. Y.

After the Post had been afloat two weeks, Chief Justice Chase, a prominent candidate for the Presidency, and the Democratic Governor of it, as will be seen by the following dispatch of October 22, 1867.

Dear Charley: Have seen Chase and John D. Stockton, Philadelphia—Please send to Chase, Washington, a file of Posts from beginning. I have written Stockton. Be sure to send Philadelphia on Friday. Am going to see him. J. R. Y. (D. S.)

How he succeeded with Mr. Chase is unknown, but he left the new Democratic organ for some weeks. The real cause of the above dispatch is to be seen in the following letter, dated October 24, 1867:

Tribune Editorial Room, Friday—Midnight—Dear Charley: I don't see why, if anybody can win with money, we can't win with it. I am sure the manna will fall when we are hungered. Our wars have saved to us. They never desert us. Look at Grant. The Democrats rallied against his resigning; told him to wait until the 4th of March, and he would be President by acclamation. What do you mean by forcing being armed force on the coast of the Dominion? Do you mean by forcing us? On that keep me well informed. I want to work that way for money. I am coming from the country to-day, and my report was approved by a vote of eighty-two shares to ten, although I need but 56,000 more than Gay. I made a report which is highly complimentary, and had everything my own way, having in fact more than a stronger than ever. Mischief just over. Thought you would like to know.

In the meantime he discovers the stockholders who thus strongly indorsed him were a set of old fogies. On 4th of May he writes Charley:

Office of Tribune, Editorial Department, May 4.—Dear Charley: Since I wrote you I have had successful things. I am doing so here, keeping myself in the harness, never remaining a current of opposition, and trying to do my duty. I shall do so long as I can, keeping myself in the battle. Well, it seems that all the fellows in the office are not, and that I am only not through the world of the third specification. The books, papers and vouchers in the office of the Commissioners, which are claimed by Webber as the property of the bondsmen, are the property wholly of the Commissioners, and not of the bondsmen. They admit the fourth specification, but admit the payment of the vouchers specified, and claim that it was wholly their discretion, that the bond of $500,000, given by Barnard and Gowan, made to the Commissioners, was sufficient to secure forty thousand dollars' worth of work yet remaining to be done on the contract. In the fifth specification they admit the payment of a large sum of money—$80,000—but deny that the contract was obtained by fraud or corruption, and that it was proper.

A December dispatch says there are now but fifteen miles of tract to be connected by two roads of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. The last will hereafter be laid down at the rate of a mile of a mile to a day until the connection is made.

THE COURTS.

LOUISVILLE CITY COURT.

HON. E. S. CRAIG, JUDGE.

TUESDAY, April 27.

Parties were mulcted for drunkenness and disorderly conduct as follows: Julia Vance, $3 and $300 bond for ninety days; Wm. Bonnore and John Fagan, $5 each; James Berger and Mat. Rush, $75 each and $250 bond for six months; Kate Howe, bonded in $200 for six months on Monday, was surrendered by her bail and sentenced to the workhouse; Carroll McCarty, paid costs; John Sullivan and John McNamara, discharged.

Charles Smith, suspected felon; continued until Thursday.

Ellen Rudd vs. Frank Breckinridge, peace warrant; dismissed.

George Arnett vs. John Miller, peace warrant; defendant held in $200 for their appearance.

Bertha Smith vs. Louisa Williams, assault and battery; $100 to answer.

Charles Smith, obtaining $10 from James E. Smith, under false pretenses; $300 to answer on Thursday.

Louis Dickenson, stealing $14 from S. B. Wolf; discharged.

Mollie Taylor, stealing $35 from S. A. Atchison; discharged.

Susan Newton and Bridget Maloy were ordered to be discharged from St. Xavier Institute.

John Adams, from Hopkinsville, stealing $3,000 in gold from James Gibson, of Henderson, Ky.; held in $1,000 to answer on Thursday.

Nick Seeker and Sam. Nickles ordered to be released from the workhouse.

The grand jury returned into court a number of indictments and were discharged.

JEFFERSON COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

HON. R. J. STITES, JUDGE.

H. Mulholland & Co. against Brannin, Summers & Co. The trial of this case was resumed on yesterday and consumed the entire day. At about a quarter of three o'clock it was submitted to the jury. The jury, however, were adjourned to this morning without having agreed upon a verdict.

DECISIONS OF COURT OF APPEALS,

FRANKFORT, April 27, 1869.

GAZZAM DECIDED.

Todd vs. Miller, Pendleton; reversed.

Mason, &c., vs. Mason, &c., Madison; affirmed.

Commonwealth vs. Frazee, Breckinridge; rehearing granted.

Kelly vs. Hamilton's administratrix, Louisville Chancery; motion to set aside judgment for damages overruled.

Key vs. Phelps, Bullitt; suggestions overruled.

Wilfley vs. Wilfley, Louisville Chancery; petition for rehearing overruled.

O'Neal vs. Orr, Bracken; rehearing granted.

Bayne & Skinner vs. Lyon, &c.; Lyon's execution quashed and ordered that copy order issue immediately.

Bradley, &c., vs. Bradley, Fayette; taxation of costs corrected.

Hunnsbrers, executor, vs. Humphreys, Woodford; time extended until the third day of the next term to enable the petitioner to prosecute.

Rankin vs. Barnes, Harrison; leave given to withdraw appeal and have writ dismissed.

Simmons vs. McKay, &c., Bullitt; motion to file petition for modification of opinion.

Gerhardus vs. Gerhardus; motion to order possession sets aside.

Bank of Bullitt's & Co., Louisville Chancery; rule against appellant to file copy of record by the first day of the fall term of the court.

Wade vs. Wade; motion to modify order of submission set aside and Courier-Journal.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 28, 1869.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.
THE DAILY.
One Year.....$12
Six Months.....6
One Month.....1
Single copy, per week.....10 cents
Single copy, per month.....40 cents
Single copy, per year.....$4 00
Any person sending us a club of ten subscribers, at $3 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
Any person sending us a club of twenty subscribers, at $3 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
Any person sending us a club of twenty-five subscribers, at $3 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
Any person sending us a club of fifty subscribers, at $3 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
SUBSCRIPTIONS ALWAYS TO BE MADE IN ADVANCE.
Money may be sent in postoffice orders or drafts, and will be at our risk. Bank notes of solvent banks will be received at par. Those certificates will be received in case of in use.
THE COURIER-JOURNAL COMPANY.

THE WEEKLY.
Single copy, per year.....$2 00
Single copy, per month.....20
Any person sending us a club of ten subscribers, at $2 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
Any person sending us a club of twenty subscribers, at $2 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
Any person sending us a club of fifty subscribers, at $2 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
Any person sending us a club of one hundred subscribers, at $2 each, will be entitled to one copy gratis for one year.
SUBSCRIPTIONS ALWAYS TO BE MADE IN ADVANCE.
Money may be sent in postoffice orders or drafts, and will be at our risk. Bank notes of solvent banks will be received at par. Those certificates will be received in case of in use.
THE COURIER-JOURNAL COMPANY.

KENTUCKY NEWS.

Uniontown wants a gunsmith.

Fine sales of tobacco are announced by the Paducah papers.

The Odd Fellows of Uniontown gave a grand barbecue on the 26th inst.

Mr. Evert M. Thompson, mail agent on the Paducah & Gulf Railroad, has resigned his office.

There is a good deal of talk in Paducah about building a railroad, and especially a road from the head of Main street to the railroad depot.

The last Legislature of Kentucky passed a charter for the Meat Packing Company of Paducah. It has authority to organize upon a subscription of one hundred thousand dollars, in stock to the amount of $250,000. A steady organization of the company is now being made.

Mrs. Bradley Smith, now aged 18 years, of Uniontown, went yesterday to nurse a few lights sick, by the visitation of a coal-oil lamp, which she had filled and trimmed, but which was keeping. Mrs. B. was seriously but not dangerously injured, but the recovery of her son is doubtful.

The Paducah Herald understands that the mails from that city to New York have lately been delayed frequently. Cheese from boats in transit by upon Pea Fork, to the amount of many thousand pounds, has been lost. Boxes of eggs, butter, &c., have "fairly been lost," and it has become hazardous to send anything by mail.

The managers of the Paducah and Gulf railroad have contracted with Col. Morris, of Troy county, to build the short gap in the road from the present terminus to Dyer station. Work thereon will commence at once, and it is thought will be finished by the last of May next.

The right of way having been given by the city to continue the Paducah & Gulf Railroad from the present depot to the river below the city, and thereby to secure a connection with the river, the work will be commenced at once, and will be pushed and completed very rapidly—in fact in a few days.

W. L. Morris, formerly of this State, but latterly absent at Carroll county, Miss., by appointment of Gilliam, has recently been promoted from the position he has served satisfactorily during the war in a Commissary Department, to that just added, to serve him from the Retail Confederate Office.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

A man supposed to be insane has been arrested in Memphis for distributing obscene advertisements among little girls on the street.

Frank Wilson, an estimable young man of Richmond, Va., accidentally shot and killed himself on that city a few days ago.

Mr. Burch Mosseman, a temperance lecturer, recently came to a sudden end. From accounts of the affair, it would seem that he was shot by the military authorities, and not by a citizen.

Mike McCoole has gone into training at St. Louis, and confidently expects to knock the stuffing out of Jem Mace in the "fistic finale" on the 4th of May next.

The Southwestern says that the low places around Memphis are now dry enough for the planting of cotton, and are generally being thus employed. The Appeal says that the cotton crop will be a full one.

The Memphis Appeal says that the report that the prisoners in the military jail at that place are to be released is without foundation. The jail is not full of a personal character, but of a military character.

The Odd Fellows had a grand turn-out and made a magnificent display in Nashville on the 26th inst. Great lodges were represented.

Ex-President Johnson will be present at the grand review of Hartranft's, on May Day, by invitation from some of the prominent citizens of Philadelphia.

A. J. Requier (William) Eddings has been arrested at Decatur, Alabama, on the charge of attempting to counterfeit the person of a little girl, and is now in jail in that place.

Mr. Bruce Mosseman, a temperance lecturer, recently came to a sudden end. From accounts of the affair it would seem that he was shot by the military authorities, and not by a citizen.

The Memphis Appeal says that the report that the prisoners in the military jail at that place are to be released is without foundation. The jail is not full of a personal character, but of a military character.

The Odd Fellows had a grand turn-out and made a magnificent display in Nashville on the 26th inst. Great lodges were represented.

Ex-President Johnson will be present at the grand review of Hartranft's, on May Day, by invitation from some of the prominent citizens of Philadelphia.

A. J. Requier (William) Eddings has been arrested at Decatur, Alabama, on the charge of attempting to counterfeit the person of a little girl, and is now in jail in that place.

Mr. Evert M. Thompson, mail agent on the Paducah & Gulf Railroad, has resigned his office.

There is a good deal of talk in Paducah about building a railroad, and especially a road from the head of Main street to the railroad depot.

The last Legislature of Kentucky passed a charter for the Meat Packing Company of Paducah. It has authority to organize upon a subscription of one hundred thousand dollars, in stock to the amount of $250,000. A steady organization of the company is now being made.

Mrs. Bradley Smith, now aged 18 years, of Uniontown, went yesterday to nurse a few lights sick, by the visitation of a coal-oil lamp, which she had filled and trimmed, but which was keeping. Mrs. B. was seriously but not dangerously injured, but the recovery of her son is doubtful.

The Paducah Herald understands that the mails from that city to New York have lately been delayed frequently. Cheese from boats in transit by upon Pea Fork, to the amount of many thousand pounds, has been lost. Boxes of eggs, butter, &c., have "fairly been lost," and it has become hazardous to send anything by mail.

The managers of the Paducah and Gulf railroad have contracted with Col. Morris, of Troy county, to build the short gap in the road from the present terminus to Dyer station. Work thereon will commence at once, and it is thought will be finished by the last of May next.

The right of way having been given by the city to continue the Paducah & Gulf Railroad from the present depot to the river below the city, and thereby to secure a connection with the river, the work will be commenced at once, and will be pushed and completed very rapidly—in fact in a few days.

W. L. Morris, formerly of this State, but latterly absent at Carroll county, Miss., by appointment of Gilliam, has recently been promoted from the position he has served satisfactorily during the war in a Commissary Department, to that just added, to serve him from the Retail Confederate Office.

Current Politics.

We publish this morning another communication on current Kentucky politics from our correspondent "Julius," who writes from a stand-point that is elevated and far-reaching. Whatever may be thought of the purpose of his articles, no one can gainsay their spirit. They are eminently sincere, Democratic, and sensible. In commending them to general perusal we cannot too highly commend the design which they have in view, viz: the consolidation and integrity of the Democratic elements of the country.

Grant and the Newspapers.

The newspapers are discussing Grant's neglect of the newspaper people in disposing of the offices within his gift. They express various opinions on the subject. Some of them think that editors and writers are deserving of especial consideration. Others think, or affect to think, the contrary. Be this as it may, Grant has not pursued his interest in exposing himself to the charge of purposely neglecting the press. Mr. Lincoln, put up to it no doubt by Mr. Seward, adopted a widely different policy. He was careful to conciliate writers and literary men. He gave them many of his most desirable appointments, in doing so he engaged hundreds of industrious pens in his interest, and the consequence was, when he fell, there was no lack of brilliant, zealous and sincere panegyric. Had he lived, the result would have vindicated still more vividly the wisdom of his policy. Newspaper men are neither more nor less efficient as public officials than other men, but their efficiency as partisans can hardly be discredited.

Sprague's Letters.

Mr. Sprague, of Rhode Island, professed in the Senate Chamber on Monday about a thousand private letters complimentary to him on account of his recent speeches, and was proceeding to read them all when the Senate procured exemption from the infliction by authorizing him to publish them in the Globe at the Government's expense. Thirty-three solid columns of them have already been published in that periodical, and as many more columns, if not twice as many, are expected. We certainly approve much that the Rhode Island Senator said in his speeches, and we have expressed our decided approbation of it, but certainly the unlimited publishing of private letters at the public cost and for his own glorification is a fraud, a cheat, an imposition, deserving of the severest rebuke. It has no precedent, and will never, we trust be accepted as an example. Among the letters, there are said to be a number of love-letters, and other soft missives. These gentlemen must have written in confidence either expressed or implied, and they may be expected to lose their places. So far as these are concerned, the publication looks like downright treachery.

John Russell Young.

That "honesty is the best policy"—to say nothing about its moral virtues—is proven every day of our lives. Men of talent are constantly throwing away the advantages, which talent never fails to secure, by mistaken and needless acts of dishonesty. Cunning, which belongs to a certain sort of talent, is a disease with some men, and often defeats the best laid plans. With his undoubted ability, what might not General Butler be if he possessed the confidence of the country, if the people believed him as sincere as they know him to be capable; it, in short, he were honest? Integrity, allied to force of character, is a better friend to the career of an ambitious man than genius. It is word, to be honest is to be successful in an exact ratio to the capacity involved; for nothing sets off the capacity of a man and gives it such a chance for display as the confidence of all who surround it.

The case of John Russell Young, of the New York Tribune, is a striking example of this perverting rule of worldly experience. Young had a fine position in his profession, has been considered one of the rising stars of journalism, and had surely no reason to complain of his lot or of his prospects. His future lay straight before him. All he had to do was to pursue it steadily, having got an unusually rapid promotion, to reap the full benefit of abilities which were generally recognized. But this seems not to have suited him. He was not content with the best start in the race for newspaper eminence in the country, and he has just "kicked the hat in the fire." Letters are published by the New York Sun from the fortunate and prosperous young journalist to a friend in Philadelphia, showing that Governor Curtin was approached by Young, in the presence of Col. A. McClure, in the parlors of the Continental Hotel, and that Young offered to sell to Curtin the Philadelphia Post and the editorial influence of the New York Tribune for $6,000. Curtin said that he did not believe he could deliver his goods, and refused to purchase the same. Overtures were then made to Simon Cameron, who took the bait, and was fleeced out of $12,500. At the same time Galgiza & Grow was struck for $3,000, and Attorney General Brewster, of Pennsylvania, for $1,000. The letters also show that, as a Tribune man, Mr. Young attempted to make the Union League, of Philadelphia. An attempt was also made to bleed S. P. Chase, but without success. The correspondence proves that Mr. Young took the Cuba dispatches of the Associated Press and sent them to the Philadelphia Post—a journal partly owned and managed by Young, but outside of the Association. Other equally astounding exposures are made. The Sun says "On Friday afternoon last, the original of the letters were shown to the Hon. H. Greeley. He said them through very carefully. He did not rise to his feet in a fit of passion and smash the bust of Lincoln adorning his sanctum, neither did he break the chair, dismember the table, or split the desk standing in his room. He simply threw himself back in his chair, drew a long breath, and said: 'Well, Sam, this is mighty interesting reading.' Twenty-three hours afterward he left the Tribune office and jammed his black felt hat on the back of his head, exclaiming: 'Well, well, sold again for the eighty-sixth time!' Mr. Young tendered Mr. Greeley his resignation, but it was not received. Instead, the owners of the Tribune assembled in the venerable Horace's private office yesterday afternoon, and it is understood that three Jonahs were tossed overboard. Mr. Greeley, it is stated, in consequence of this exposé, has withdrawn his acceptance of the Pacific Railroad Commissionership.

All this is very sad. Here is a young fellow with first-rate abilities, a first-rate position, and, apparently, better than first-rate prospects, who—for the sake of a few beggarly thousands of dollars—goes deliberately and risks his fortune and his future upon the doubtful chances of rascality. His good sense might have shown him the danger. It might also have demonstrated to him the fact that success, bought at such a price, is dearly bought, while failure in all such enterprises is ruin. The saying of Wolsey, "Corruption wins not more than honesty," is but half true. It does not, cannot, win so much, and if it win at all it must be both subtle and fortunate. Poor Young seems to have been neither the one nor the other, and—with ambition enough in store for fame and talent enough to achieve it—he goes to the wall early in the race, a miserable, blackened might-have-been.

Butler's Friends.

Just before the House adjourned some Boston people, anxious for the interest of Mr. Sloat, interrupted to Butler: "Sloat is in danger because of his friendship for you." Butler, on the shoulder with a thunderbolt on his face, said: "Mr. Sloat is not in danger; none of my friends ever are." The remarks show that the man is not altogether groundless; and it is common, indeed, in Washington circles to say that Butler's influence with Congressmen is so influential in the distribution of patronage as the men who carries the election. The Springfield Herald (the late Grant) is not the first high official who has paid for his friendship for Butler. Says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican:

The Springfield Republican is known as the ablest and most influential Republican organ in New England. If, however, it is true that Gen. Grant pays more respect to his enemies than to his friends, the reason is that he is afraid of his enemies or that they operate upon his mental weaknesses so as to cheat him into the belief that they feel an actual devotion to him. There can be no doubt that, although there are between him and Butler several unsettled and outstanding questions of personal veracity, and although their violent charges against each other have been for years before the public and now remain before the public, unretracted, unexplained, and unmodified, Butler actually exercises more power over him and any other member of Congress from the Northern States. By submitting to Butler's influence and guidance, by yielding to his advice and dictation, the President degrades himself. Whether Butler, as the Springfield editor charges, secretly carries "a knife in his heart for the President" we cannot say, but probably the public good would be promoted by his having a keen blade in his heart literally as well as figuratively. We do not believe that the old hypocrite would hesitate, in the midst of his saturnine smiles and malignant flatteries, to avail himself of what he might deem a good opportunity to strike a vengeful blow at the President on account of old and unmentioned but unforgotten and undimmished hostilities.

There is a strange inconsistency on the part of President Grant in paying such extreme deference to Butler on the subject of the appointment of men to office and the retention of them in office. Grant, as our readers well know, has proclaimed to the country that he will neither appoint any man to office nor tolerate any man in office who does not go for the payment of both the principal and the interest of the national bonds, because he is "irrevocably" for Butler, as all know, has, in several of his most elaborate speeches in Congress, taken the strongest possible ground in favor of the payment of the principal of the bonds in the ordinary currency of the country, and he has shown no indication of a thought of moving from that ground a single inch. Here then is the extraordinary spectacle of a member of Congress, whom the President is strongly pledged to appoint to no Federal office and to endure in no Federal office, but to whom, at the same time, he accords more power in the designation of office-holders than to any other member of the national Legislature. The whole administration is made up of such gross and glaring inconsistencies.

Cuban Prospects.

The probability is that the present attempt at revolution in Cuba is not destined to succeed. The reports from the island may be false, but the apparent preponderance of evidence is, that the Spanish troops, unless they meet a most terrible enemy in yellow fever, will maintain the supremacy of the Government. In the event, however, of their success, they should be compelled, if compulsion is found necessary, not to outrage the feelings of the civilized world by practicing upon their conquered foe the cruelties for which the Spanish race has made itself notorious throughout all its history. And yet we don't know that our own country is likely, in any state of case that can well arise, to have a show of right to interfere for the protection of the Cubans against their oppressors. God forbid that the Spaniards, if victorious in battle, shall ever oppress and trample down the vanquished Cubans as remorselessly as the dominant power in our own country is oppressing and trampling down the vanquished and unresisting people of the South. But, even if our Government, on account of its own scandalous action toward the South, should be ashamed to interpose for the protection of the Cubans from annihilation and persecution, there would at least be myriads of individuals among us who would be deterred by no such considerations, and who, scrupulously as they might observe the letter of the laws of neutrality, would find means to serve according to their views the cause of God and humanity.

We still hope for the speedy coming of Cuban independence, but, as we have said, the general tenor of the information from the island is unfavorable. If Spain shall fully re-establish her authority in Cuba, and, learning wisdom from the lessons of the past, shall give to the Cubans a good and wholesome government, conceding to them the rights which they are entitled to claim, her sway may continue without material disturbance for years. But it is not in the nature of things that the Spanish possessions and the British possessions on this continent should permanently belong to Spain and Great Britain. Let the colonies of both countries be governed as they may, either their independence or their annexation to the United States is among the inevitable events of the future. And whether independence or annexation shall be their destiny will depend much upon the future character and career of the United States. We do not suppose that, while our country is in her present unsettled, confused, and anomalous condition, with taxation pressing the life-blood out of her veins, there is in all our hemisphere (with the possible exception of the Dominicans) a people who would willingly accept identification with her fortunes.

A Female Office-holder.

A Miss Angie King has superseded the late postmaster at Janesville, Wisconsin. A Chicago paper publishes the following letter which, whilst she was seeking the place, she wrote to that notorious old abolitionist and woman's rights champion, Mrs. Livermore:

JANESVILLE, Wis., April 12, 1869.

My Dear Mrs. Livermore:

At present I do not feel so Hoorty to expose all the "wire-pullings" of the postoffice question. But I assure you that "Saturday never's a late" that I intend to secure, if they be not "sold out" to some "sneaking" with the "sugar-plums." Truly yours,
ANGIE KING.

Miss Angie, as we said, got the postoffice. This she no doubt considered as "coming down handsomely with the sugar-plums" on the part of the "politicians," and so she has not thought proper to narrate the tale that she said "hung thereby." Of course the "politicians," whom she contemplated switching with the tale, must have been the persons whom she regarded as having "the sugar-plums," that is the postoffice, in their gift or under their control, but whether she referred to the politicians at Janesville or to the politicians at Washington we of course cannot say. We hope, for the honor of her sex as well as for the public good, that she is not, if she can be correctly judged by her letters, an average specimen of the women recently appointed to office. She evidently thinks it one of "woman's rights" to adopt the flash talk, the slang, the vulgar cant used by "sports" at the race-track, the prize-ring, and the cockpit. "Come down handsomely with the sugar-plums!" Isn't Angie a pretty model of a female Radical office-holder? How is a female likely to manage the mail when she obtains the management of it in the shape of black mail levied under threats of disgraceful exposure?

Our Late Spanish Minister.

John P. Hale, our late Minister at Madrid, is recalled because he was charged by the Spaniards with using his official facilities and advantages to promote and cover over illegitimate and criminal mercantile speculations amounting substantially to smuggling. We have no doubt that he was guilty of the charge, for it is not to be supposed that men so long prominent as he in the ranks of the most aggressive Radicalism are likely to have kept their integrity of character if they ever had any. He was not fit to be appointed a foreign Minister, and he is now as fit to be recalled as General Sickles is to take his place.

But, whilst President Grant recalls an unconvicted smuggler from the ministership at Madrid, he appoints and the Senate confirms a convicted one as Surveyor of the port of New Orleans. And, after all, Hale, we have no doubt, was, while at Madrid, a pretty exact representative of the Government and the functionaries he represented. President Lincoln and his wife, the Cabinet, the Congress, the civil subordinates and military chiefs, were all busy, for four years in the work of abstracting money for themselves and their friends from the Treasury. Lincoln, as Brownlow and other radicals acknowledge, used the public money, among other purposes, to establish and sustain partisan newspapers, while Cameron and Harlan in the Cabinet, Pomeroy and Ashley in Congress Butler at the head of the army, and a thousand fellows in inferior positions, were all at work in their respective spheres, appropriating whatever they could under the guise and concealment of their public offices. If the numberless peculations did not take the shape of smuggling, they took shapes as bad and took all the shapes which they had a chance to take. Hale might perhaps have preferred to swindle by some other means than the promotion and protection of smuggling, but this was probably the most feasible and available means that happened to be within his reach. The poor fellow, tied down at a foreign court, did not have the privilege of choosing between so many different modes of guilty gain as his political friends at home. Still he unquestionably showed his unquestionable zeal in the common cause according to his opportunities.

The sick Hon thought it a most uncommon hardship to be kicked by an ass. We hope that Hale will tell his friends how he feels at being condemned and punished for dishonesty by an administration that has made Ashley of Ohio Governor of Montana. His denunciations must, we should think, be decidedly peculiar.

The Revenues and the Collection of Them.

Some persons, who have not lost all faith in the Government, may think it decidedly singular, that, while the amount of the internal revenue collected diminishes annually, the cost of collecting it increases at least an equal proportion. The smaller the amount collected the greater is the cost of collection. In 1866, the amount collected was very nearly $310,000,000, and the cost of collection $7,690,000; in 1867, the amount collected was only $283,000,000, a diminution from the preceding year of $27,000,000, and the cost was $8,982,686, an increase of $1,292,686; in 1868, the amount collected was less than $180,000,000, a diminution of $74,000,000 from the preceding year, and the cost was $9,827,801, an increase of $844,615. Thus, in 1868, it cost $1,827,801 more to collect $180,000,000 than in 1866 it cost us to collect $310,000,000. This is monstrous. It is a scandal. It involves embezzlement, theft, robbery, upon a prodigious scale. It shows that corruption covers the land like a putrid sea. But not a word of complaint or exposure has been uttered by the Radicals of Congress, who have contented themselves with pluloning the arms of President Johnson and thus preventing him from sweeping out of office the hordes of knaves and villains that the whole country has known to be depredating upon the substance, the livelihood, the very lives of our people.

Mr. Schenck, of Ohio, who disputes with Butler the leadership of the House of Representatives, declared a year ago that the force of revenue officers would be greatly reduced when the tax on manufactures should be taken off. The tax on manufactures was taken off, but the force of revenue officers was not reduced. No attempt was made on the Radical side to reduce it, and the Democracy of the House, although they exposed the existing abuses in the most scathing language, could accomplish nothing. The Radical dispensers of power and patronage, so far from reducing the number of officers, have increased it from year to year and thus increased the expenditures, regretting only that they had not more public offices and public money for distribution among their party friends. And are there any signs to indicate reduction now or within the current four years? If so, in what quarter are they visible?

☞ All the world knows that the Hon. Preston Brooks, of South Carolina, several years ago, chastised Senator Sumner in the Senate Chamber. Well, it is published that Mrs. Sumner, who separated from her husband a couple of years ago, has sent to Mrs. Brooks a very handsome present. We rather think that she accompanied the gift with the expression of a hope that Mrs. Brooks would take a second husband.

CITY ITEMS.

One Dollar Store.
The Royal Palace will again be thrown open this morning. Those hundreds who were so much disappointed on yesterday on account of its being closed, will be recompensed by finding the most magnificent stock ever displayed in this city. Nice goods are received daily.

A Rare Chance to Make Money.
If you want easy and pleasant employment in a business that will pay you from $30 to $60 per day, purchase some territory for the sale of Yandemark's portable fence, now on exhibition at the Court-house. The patentee is stopping at the Louisville Hotel.

French Velocipede Soap
Manufactured by the Societe Sanitaire. For sale by PETER, FOWLER & COOPER, R. A. ROBINSON & CO., H. CHAMBERS & CO.

Attention, Housekeepers!
To the elegant stock of silver-plated goods, to be sold this day at the auction rooms of Sherman P. Whaley & Co., 39 west Market street.

In a Box.
Beautiful porcelain pictures put into handsome cases at short notice by Webster—Gallery 35, Fourth street.

☞ We can recommend in perfect good faith Ward's Rheumatic Liniment. It has made surprising cures, and any one need only try it to be convinced of its virtue. It is only 50 cents per bottle, and will not only cure rheumatism, but relieve pains in back and limbs.

The Most Perfect Iron Tonic.
Hagaman's Perrated Elixer of Bark. A pleasant cordial prepared from Calisaya Bark and Pyrophosphate of Iron, possessing the valuable properties of Iron, phosphorus and calisaya, without any injurious ingredients. As a preventive to fever and ague, and as a tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it cannot be surpassed, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians. Physicians in prescribing, and the public in purchasing, should be particular to specify Hagaman's as there are many inferior articles in the market purporting to be of the same combination. Prepared only by Hagaman & Co., chemists and druggists, New York, and sale by all respectable druggists.

☞ J. B. Dean, at his furniture store, southwest corner of Twelfth and Market streets, Nos. 484 and 486, will buy and repair all kinds of furniture and pay the highest cash price for feathers.

☞ Wall paper, new, cheap and elegant, for sale by Finz & Lindsay, 75 Fourth street, next door to the National Hotel. Samples sent to parties in the country.

LOCAL NOTICES.

☞ Auction sale of dry goods, boots, shoes, notions, &c., from a first-class retail store, this morning at 10 o'clock.
S. T. MOORE & CO., Main and Fourth.

☞ The only place in this city to get a real fine ferrocype is at the New Gallery, 74 Fourth street. Pay is bound to please. Baby pictures made quicker than the quickest.

Astonishing!
The European Wimsat of 304 Market street was made the recipient of a valuable present on Saturday last, for effecting through her wonderful powers a reconciliation between a well-known gentleman and a lady of this city, after being separated over two years. As an astrologist she has no equal in this or any other country.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Cheap, Cheaper, Cheapest, and best, especially when applied to the complete assortment of Saddles, Harness, &c., at
E. S. MILLER,
No. 39 Main, bet. Second and Third streets.

☞ Building lots for sale on Chestnut, Main, Green, and Magazine streets, near Twenty-third street, by (ap30 dtf) GRAVES & SON.

Now Ready,
the most complete and varied assortment of Trunks, Valises, Traveling-sacks, &c., to be found in this city, at prices that defy competition, at
E. S. MILLER,
No. 39 Main, bet. Second and Third streets.

Stop! Listen for a Moment!
WHY DO YOU SUFFER with sick headache, neuralgia, constipation, indigestion, and their kindred ailments, when by stopping into Gray store you can obtain a package of Dr. Gray's Elixir of Sweet Flag, which invigorates and purifies the blood, and restores to perfect health the digestive organs, nerves, muscles, and the entire system? Ask your druggist for a package of Dr. Gray's Elixir of Sweet Flag. Have you a cough or cold, or even consumption, in its first stage? Try Gray's Expectorant. Are you troubled with dyspepsia? Try Gray's Elixir of Sweet Flag. Do you want a good appetite? Try Gray's Elixir of Sweet Flag. All who may suffer from bodily or mental debility, Gray's Elixir of Sweet Flag will restore to health and strength. Try it. Sold by all druggists.
CLINTON McCLARITY, Sec'y.

Bank Notice.
A MEETING of the stockholders will be held at the Bank of Louisville on Monday, May 3 next, for the purpose of electing nine Directors to serve the ensuing year.
E. D. MORGAN, Cashier.
ap3 dtd

WANTED,
Two Good Paper Hangers,
ADDRESS
A 277 ☞ 74 and 76 Lake st., Chicago, Ill.

Peters, Webb & Co.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Grand, Upright & Square Piano-fortes.
OVER 5,000 INSTRUMENTS have been made and sold by this house. Office and warerooms, Colburn's old stand, corner Fourth and Fifth. Factory, corner Main and Fourteenth sts. ap27 tim

PRINTS.
2 CASES Hoyle's 44 Purple Prints:
2 do do 44 Rock Plates;
1 do do 44 Chintz;
1 do do 44 Furniture;
1 do do 44 Robe de Chambre;
And a large stock of Fancy Prints,
Received and for sale by
JOS. T. TOMPKINS & CO.,
72 and 73 west side Sixth street, between Main and Market. ap25 td

COTTON YARNS, &c.
400 300, 200, and 700 Jefferson Cotton Yarns;
do do do do Cypress do do do do do do Falls City do do do do do do Tubes do do
For sale by
JOS. T. TOMPKINS & CO.,
72 and 73 west side Sixth street, between Main and Market. ap25 td

CASSIMERES.
6 CASES Fancy Cassimeres:
2 do Black Doeskin Cassimeres,
Received and for sale by
JOS. T. TOMPKINS & CO.,
72 and 73 west side Sixth street, between Main and Market. ap25 td

DRILLS.
1 CASE White Linen Drilling;
1 do Fancy do
1 do do do
Received and for sale by
JOS. T. TOMPKINS & CO.,
72 and 73 west side Sixth street, between Main and Market. ap25 td

LAWNS.
12 CASES Paisley Lawns;
2 do do Grenadine Lawns;
Received and for sale by
JOS. T. TOMPKINS & CO.,
72 and 73 Sixth street, between Main and Market. ap25 td

New English Books for the Little Folks
The Foster, the Parsley and the Fairies.....1 vol.
Mother Goose for Children.....1 vol.
Illustrated.....1 vol.
The Painted Bird and the Painted Toys.....1 vol.
A story for children. By Mrs. H. C. Knight.....1 vol.
Lear Animals, the Music Governess.....1 vol.
The Young Fisherman.....1 vol.
The Fisherman and the Parley.....1 vol.
Illustrated. Stories, sports, travel, and amusements. Illustrated.....1 vol.
A Boy's Battle; or, Algernon Percy.....1 vol.
Illustrated. Stories of the Civil War. Illustrated by steel engravings.....1 vol.
Round the World.....1 vol.
A story of travel compiled from the narratives of Ida Pfeiffer.....1 vol.
Hebrew Heroes.....1 vol.
Stories selected from sacred history. By A. L. O. E. Illustrated.....1 vol.
The Golden Fingers.....1 vol.
By A. L. O. E.
The Lion of Judah.....1 vol.
For children. Profusely illustrated.....1 vol.
Earthquakes and Volcanoes.....1 vol.
Their History, Phenomena, and Probable Causes. By Margo Nelson. Illustrated.....1 vol.
The Heaped Cities of Campania.....1 vol.
Their History and Recent Explorations and their Remains. By W. H. D. Adams. Illustrated.....1 vol.
Any of the above sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price.
PHILLIPS, SAMPSON & CO.,
ap26 dtd 110 Washington st., Boston.

DR. A. A. CLANTON, of Montevallo, Ala., is now at Louisville Hotel, No. 113, where he may be consulted until the 1st of May. Dr. C. is a skilful practitioner, the worst cases of piles without the use of the knife. Refers to hundreds of his patients in this State. His patients are perfectly well in a few days. Call and see hundred from his patients in Kentucky.

NOW READY!
THE MAY NUMBER OF
LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE!
With a Full Page Illustration.
CONTENTS.
1—BEYOND THE SMOKE-RISE; A Novel—part V.
2—MALLOW. By Poem.
3—LAUGHING HERMIA.
4—NANE BERTRAM'S 19 POLITICS. Part III.
5—THE ROMANCE OF THE REVOLUTION. Superiority of Germans to Americans. 2. Showing how the Germans saved New York. By Charles J. Stillé. Illustrated.
6—MODERN GREECE. By Harriet Prescott Spofford.
7—TIPTON COAL MINES.
8—A FEW CURIOUS DERIVATIVES. By Prof. John Lyle Feee.
9—DICK'S LAST FEE. A story of the day. By L. Clarke Davis.
10—SPECTRE OF THE SUN.
11—RACHEL DOUGLAS. By PHILADELPHIA.
12—THE DOUGLAS OF WASHINGTON DIVISION.
13—OUR BOOK TABLE.
14—OUR MONTHLY GOSSIP.
15—OUR SCIENTIFIC RECORD.
16—LITERATURE OF THE DAY.
Sold by all the book and news stores. Single number, 35 cents, post-paid. Annual terms. Liberal terms to clubs and to the trade.
J. B. LIPPINCOTT & CO., Publishers,
715 and 717 Market st., Philadelphia.

Four Good Novels, Recently Published.
I.—TROTTIN.
The Story of a Waif and a Stray. By "Ouida," author of "Strathmore," "Chandos," &c. With portrait of author. Fourth edition. 12mo. Cloth. $2.
"Tricotrin is a work of absolute power, some truth, and deep interest."—N. Y. Day Book.
II.—DALLAS GALBRAITH.
By Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis, author of "Life in the Iron Mills," "Waiting for the Verdict," etc. Second edition. Pro. Cloth. $2.
"One of the best novels ever written for an American publication."—Chicago Evening Journal.
"Dallas Galbraith is powerfully written in all respects."—The North American.
III.—OLD HAM'SELLE'S SECRET.
After the German of E. Marlitt, author of "Gold Elsie," "The Old Mam'selle's Secret," etc. Fifth edition. 12mo. Cloth. $2.
"Very interesting story, and one which, having once opened, it seemed more difficult to leave. We hardly know how to recommend a book more highly."—The Boston Transcript.
IV.—GOLD ELSIE.
From the German of E. Marlitt, author of "The Old Mam'selle's Secret." By Mrs. A. L. Wister. Fourth edition. 12mo. Cloth. $2.
"A charming story charmingly told."—Hall Gaz.
"A delightful book."—Boston Commercial Bulletin from the title page to the end."—The Home Circle.
Sold by all booksellers, or will be sent by mail, postage free, on receipt of price by the publishers.
J. B. LIPPINCOTT & CO.,
715 & 717 Market st., Philad'a.

The Rifle and the Hound in Ceylon,
By Sir SAMUEL W. BAKER, author of "Cast up by the Sea," "The Tribes on my Frontier," etc. Illustrated. 12mo. Extra cloth. $1 50.
In this volume Mr. Baker relates, in his agreeable style, his experience of shooting and sporting in the Island of Ceylon. He has given us a great deal of news in that country. The book abounds with stirring adventures, and is full of information.—Hall Gaz.
Sold by all booksellers, or will be sent by mail, postage free, on receipt of price by the publishers.
J. B. LIPPINCOTT & CO.,
715 & 717 Market st., Philad'a.

On Seats and Saddles,
Hats and Bonnets; and the Prevention and Cure of Bad Systems in Horses. By FRANCIS DWIGHT. Illustrated. Extra cloth. $2.
For sale by all booksellers, or will be sent by mail, postage free, on receipt of price by the publishers.
J. B. LIPPINCOTT & CO.,
715 & 717 Market st., Philad'a.

Notice to One and All!
IF you want a new MACHINE of any kind, or any repairing done, call on T. J. MONTGOMERY, the only authorized agent for Singer's Sewing Machines, 74 Fifth street, where you will be suited. all dtf

THE PLACE, NO. 91.
IF you want your watches cleaned, dyed, and other repairing done, call on T. J. MONTGOMERY, the only authorized agent for Singer's Sewing Machines, 74 Fifth street, where you will be suited. all dtf

W. A. KNIGHTHEAD. HENRY MAGIL.
MERIWETHER & ISAACS,
REAL ESTATE BROKERS
No. 128 West Jefferson st., bet. Fourth and Fifth, LOUISVILLE, KY.
THE undersigned have this day entered into a copartnership for the transaction of buying and selling Real Estate, Negotiating Loans, Collecting Rents, &c. Will also transact a general Commission business. Will be pleased to receive consignments of Real Estate for sale, and will spare no pains to sell same. Office will be open at all times. Will also attend to the collection of Rents and Debts. Refer to Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Louisville; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Cincinnati; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., New York; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Boston; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Philadelphia; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Baltimore; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Chicago; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., St. Louis; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., San Francisco; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., New Orleans; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Memphis; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Nashville; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Atlanta; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Augusta; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Charleston; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Savannah; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Mobile; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Montgomery; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Selma; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Vicksburg; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Natchez; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Jackson; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Meridian; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Columbus; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Macon; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Savannah; Messrs. Bullock & Bro., Charleston

WANTED.

WANTED—A SITUATION—By a young lady as ...

WANTED—HARD WORK MADE EASY—BY ...

WANTED—IMMEDIATELY—A BOY TO ...

WANTED—SITUATION—By a young man ...

WANTED—SITUATION—By a young man ...

WANTED—SITUATION—By a young man

Courier-Journal.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 28, 1869.

Mr. C. Shiffer, formerly an editor of the Louisville Democrat, has been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, vice Gen. Spaulding, who has resigned. He will assist Gen. Boutwell in the discharge of his official duties.

Mr. Shiffer will leave for Washington to-day. He is a gentleman of fine abilities, and will make a good officer.

THE NEWS.

Gold was stronger in New York yesterday, and closed at 133¼.

Dr. Paddock has accepted the rectorship of Grace church, New York city.

Rev. George A. Darborow, for twenty-five years Rector of the Church of Redemption in Philadelphia, died there yesterday morning.

Hon. Sam. Judah, for more than half a century one of the leading lawyers of Indiana, died in Vincennes on Saturday morning.

The village of Yon Bet, in Nevada county, Califorinia, was destroyed by fire on Saturday last.

Yesterday morning a man named Patrick Burk was killed instantly in Cincinnati, by falling off a derrick at Coleman's stone yard.

The junction of the Union and Central Pacific railroads is at Promontory Point, Utah. It will be made some time during the present week.

A street car ran over and instantly killed two children in Newark, N. J., yesterday. The mother of the children attempted to commit suicide in grief.

A new weekly paper, the New Administration, is to be published in Memphis. It puts out thirty-nine articles of belief, and says it is "unreserved in reconstruction."

A German named Charles E. Green, a collector of the North American Life Insurance Company, absconded from St. Louis Monday night with about one thousand dollars of the company's money.

The Board of Directors of the St. Joseph and Denver Railroad decided on Monday that the road should connect with the Kansas Pacific Railroad at the one hundredth meridian. The work will be pushed forward rapidly.

James Brennan, late organizer of the Fenian Brotherhood, left Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday, in search and correspondent to secure information of the whereabouts of lands, &c., for Irish emigrants in the South and West.

Chas. W. Scott, charged with sending a bogus telegram from the Western Union Telegraph Office in Cincinnati, was yesterday fined $100 and costs in the Police Court. The case will be taken to the Circuit Court on Friday on a bill of exceptions.

Rev. J. C. Lovejoy has been removed from the common-house, in Boston, and his place has been given to Charles Mitchell, a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, who lost a leg in the army and was one of the first two colored men ever elected to the Legislature.

The Indiana State Senate yesterday afternoon, by a vote of 35 to 13, adopted a resolution to expunge from its journal the resolution of censure passed against Gov. Conrad some months ago, in regard to the contract with Gov. Baker in Pennsylvania, case.

It is stated that John Russell Young, managing editor of the New York Tribune, has purchased the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, and is negotiating the Associated Press franchises for the use of a paper in Philadelphia with which he is connected, in violation of the rules of the Association.

Under warrants issued by U. S. Commissioner, A. S. Hopkins of New York, and J. Jones, of Jersey City, on the complaint of Mrs. Mary Jane Cheney, charging Mrs. Woodhull, Tennie C. Claflin and Col. Blood with sending obscene matter through the mails of the U. S. Court. It is understood that they have developments in their connection, as soon as they can be got into a proper form.

The National Sunday School Convention will be held for three months, at the First Baptist Church, corner of Fifth and Fourth Avenue, New York, from about 11 o'clock this morning, and closing for session on Friday. George H. Stuart, of Philadelphia, the convention will have representatives from all parts of the United States and Canada. Parliamentary usages will be observed, and the convention will be governed by the "rules obtaining" after the contest in Congress.

Fatal Fire.

Yesterday morning at four o'clock a fire broke out in the grocery store of Peter Schaefer, No. 1 Fourth Avenue, New York, doing about $1 $7,000 damage. About twenty feet of the building on the east side of the Fortieth Avenue was burned away. The fire was discovered by a boy carrying away. The fire was discovered by a boy carrying a basket of coals, and running a line of fire from the store to the coal basket. The building is owned by Mrs. Schaefer, and some of the occupants of the upper floors were burned out.

Fatal Accident.

A German named Charles Hoffman, a laborer on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, was killed instantly on Monday morning by a train of cars. He was walking on the track, and was struck by the train, which was backing. He was thrown a distance of about fifty feet, and his head was crushed in a horrible manner. He was about thirty-five years of age, and leaves a wife and two children. He was buried yesterday afternoon.

Fatal Accident.

Yesterday morning, about 8 o'clock, a man named Thomas Hall, employed in the Louisville and Nashville railroad shops, was killed by the